

Miller renews Trace Isys' OpenTWINS to 2021

Trace Isys, a leading provider of business-critical solutions to the insurance market for more than 30 years, today (1 June 2016) announced that Miller, a leading specialist (re)insurance broking partnership, has renewed its OpenTWINS contract with Trace Isys, to 2021.

Miller has worked in partnership with Trace Isys for more than 15 years. Recognising the importance of technology in maintaining a competitive advantage, Miller implemented the OpenTWINS Broking platform in their London office in May 2015.

This was swiftly followed by a successful implementation in January 2016 for their business in Asia. The OpenTWINS product suite now provides Miller with a fully-integrated platform for all its re/insurance business requirements, supporting the whole risk cycle from placement to settlement and beyond, in the UK and Asia.

Tim Rayner, Head of Business Transformation & Technology, commented: "We have worked closely with Trace Isys since 1999, so not only did we feel confident that OpenTWINS would provide our required functionality, but also that they would deliver, and continue to develop, a fully-integrated solution to match our current and future needs."

Julian Mancell Smith, Trace Isys M.D. commented, "We designed OpenTWINS to provide brokers with a flexible, scalable solution that will continually develop to meet their needs in a fast-changing market."

We are, therefore, delighted that Miller recognised the benefits of our approach and we look forward to supporting its continued future growth strategy."
